

FOR CONCRETE DAM

Bids Opened Monday---Local Man has Lowest Figures

The bids for the construction of the concrete dam at Peverly Brook opened in the rooms of the public works department at City hall on Monday afternoon in the presence of the board. Eleven proposals were offered, half from of which came from local contractors.

The highest figures were $11,000 sent in by a Boston firm and the lowest $6,824.87 from James Marcella of this city. The next lowest was $7,700 that of Mr. Badger. Five different firms offered to construct the dam for the same figures, $10,000. The board will examine the bids and award the work in a few days.

BROKEN WIRES

Two blasts on the fire alarm on Monday afternoon were caused by the breaking of a wire by some workmen at the corner of Vaughan and Dear streets, who were arranging guy wires to a big pole.

NIGHT GANG AT BUTTON SHOP

Morley Button Co. Obligated to Double Their Force to Fill Orders

To the popular use of the hobbie skirt is attributed the increased use of buttons and the vastly enlarged business of the Morley Button Manufacturing company. Hobbie skirts make for more business; that is the theory of the button-making concern now the largest button factory in the world.

Business has so vastly increased that a night crew is rapidly being attached. Approximately 330 men and women are employed by the company. An additional 150 will be added to the service and will be installed as a night force. The present crew will retire at 6 o'clock at night and the night crew will immediately resume work and continue until about 1 o'clock in the morning. Throughout the summer months practically the entire force has continued at work until 9 o'clock each night, but the three hours of overtime was found to be insufficient to cope with the new orders.

Since the hobbie skirt has come into vogue business has increased about 25 per cent, it is said. As the narrow skirt is also higher than the ordinary practical affair also of less girth, the modest wearers have employed high shoes to shield their pretty ankles from querulous eyes. High shoes engaged fourteen or sixteen buttons whereas the comely shoes of another generation were satisfied to be guarded with four or five.

Popular use of buttons on women's and men's apparel has also increased the business of the plant. The fashion of attaching three and four buttons to the low end of the sleeves of men's coats and to all odds and ends of the women's gowns have doubled the manufacture of buttons.

The artesian well sunk into the ground at the plant has found a capacity of four gallons of water a minute at 300 feet. This supply is insufficient and of 400 feet. Water obtained will be conveyed to a storage for use in time of drought or for supplying the company's fire-fighting system in time of fire. A supply of nine gallons a minute is desired.

Specifications will soon be issued for the construction in the spring of a new brick building to contain the cooling system. Also, twenty-one additional ovens will be added, making an increase of 300 per cent in furnaces in two years. With the construction of a new office building, new storage house, new japanning department and recreation rooms for the employees, the capacity of the plant is doubled. It is said that the company can now issue 5,000,000 buttons a day. While the night force is employed electrical power will be obtained from the Rockingham County Light and Power company in order not to force the electrical plant owned and operated by the company.

BOSTON NAVY YARD ITEMS

United States revenue cutter Grosvenor, which has been at the Charlestown Navy Yard for some weeks undergoing extensive repairs in readiness for its winter cruising, left the yard yesterday, with all the work finished, and will resume its station work today.

United States torpedo boat destroyer Walke sailed yesterday afternoon for New York via Newport. It was also announced at the yard that the destroyer Anmen and Trippe gunboat Nashville and the big supply ship Celtic, all now at the yard, will also sail within a couple of weeks for New York, having been ordered to participate in the great mobilization month. This will leave only the battleship Rhode Island and the scout cruiser Birmingham as general service in commission at the yard and it is possible that both of them will likewise be ordered to the New York review.

Battleship Illinois, which is being entirely modernized and practically rebuilt at the local yard, yesterday had its new battery of 12-inch turret guns put aboard.

WAR FLEET BIG CUT PEACEFUL

Record Array For the Hudson River

Washington, Oct. 16--A triple row of war craft the most powerful fleet ever assembled in American waters will swing at anchor in the Hudson river the latter part of this month on the occasion of the new naval review at New York. The vessel will extend in three lines from 57th street to the mouth of Spuyten Duyvil Creek. For two days the formidable fighting force will undergo inspection before returning to sea.

Arrangements for the review were practically completed today at a meeting between Sec. of the Navy Meyer and Rear Admiral Osterhaus, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet. If the President is unable to attend as seems probable, Sec. Meyer will conduct the review alone from the Mayflower, although he will have a number of invited guests. Some of these will be accommodated on board the Dolphin.

The Secretary has changed the original plans so as to provide for an inspection of the fleet on the first day. On that occasion, while the ships lie at anchor in columns, Sec. Meyer on the Mayflower will sail through the fleet, stopping to visit personally the flagship of each of the divisions.

On the second day, Nov. 1, the Mayflower will anchor at the lower end of the columns and the entire fleet will pass in review before the Secretary and proceed straight through the Narrows to sea.

It has not yet been definitely settled where the fleet is to go but it is believed to their home navy yards, while the main body will rendezvous off the Chesapeake, capes if the weather is fair or otherwise in Hampton Roads.

The ships are supposed to be kept in condition to respond instantly to a call for foreign service and it may be that advantages will be taken of the problems evolved in the Naval War College.

What is expected to be one of the most striking features of the mobilization will be the formation of the board, "American Executive Posting

GOVERNOR BASS AND COUNCIL IN DEADLOCK

Over Appointment of Insurance Commissioner --- The Governor's Appointment Rejected---Many Appointments Made.

Governor Robert A. Bass and his council are again in dead lock, and this time over the appointment of the Insurance Commissioner. Governor Bass on Monday appointed Robert J. Merrill of Claremont to succeed George H. Adams of Concord, the present commissioner, and Councilors Entwistle, Turner and Lord voted not to confirm and Councilors Grier and Gho to confirm. The vote standing three to two. Mr. Merrill was not confirmed.

Mr. Merrill was a member of the state senate last year, and he is a stenographer and a staunch friend of Governor Bass. He is not acceptable, however, to the insurance people of the state, who are satisfied with Commissioner Adams, who has held the office since the death of the late John C. Luehan and he has conducted that department very satisfactorily to the people of the state. He is a very capable official and during his term of office there has never been a single criticism of his department. Councilors Entwistle, Turner and Lord are for Mr. Adams on these grounds, and on the grounds that it is poor policy to place an inexperienced man at the head of such an important commission.

As Mr. Adams position holds over until his successor is appointed, he will likely remain in office for a long time, for there is no doubt but what the three councilors who favor him will stick out indefinitely.

At the evening session of the Governor and Council the following appointments were made by Governor Bass and confirmed by the Council: George Blanchet of Manchester, police commissioner of that city; Leonard G. Smith, Manchester, Bank Commissioner.

Dr. David W. Parker, Manchester, Trustee of the State Industrial School to succeed Dr. H. W. Bodwell.

Mr. Michael B. Long, Portsmouth, Trustee of the Soldiers' Home, succeeding the late M. M. Collins.

Harold M. Hardy, Hollis, Trustee of the New Hampshire College, to succeed Dr. G. W. Currier of Nashua, resigned.

Attorney General Eastman was authorized to employ counsel to assist in prosecuting the Express cases.

Governor Bass appointed Thursday Nov. 30, as Thanksgiving day.

The session of the Governor and Council continued until almost midnight but no agreement was made on the Insurance Commissioner matter.

NEWS FOR AUTOMOBILES.

In deciding to give Delaware a 110 mile trunk line highway, General A. Coleman du Pont recognized that such a road would be of some benefit to every inhabitant of the State. A hospital, college, and manual training school were considered, but rejected in favor of the road, and so General du Pont proposed to present to his home State the most intelligent road ever constructed in the world, with only one proviso, and that decidedly essential, for it related to the guarantee of State maintenance forever.

General du Pont recently visited National Headquarters of the American Automobile Association on Fifth Avenue, for he is vantage when the road becomes an actuality.

"Every 20 miles I have in mind the establishment of agriculture experimental stations for the benefit of the farmer and development of the State, in charge of graduates from the agricultural colleges in the country. They will show the farmers of Delaware, and those of any other State, how two blades of grass will grow where they had grown one before. Of course, there will be other representative adjuncts of farm life, live stock of the best breeds, for it is my belief that only healthy and the best cattle should serve the needs of the human race."

As to the road itself, my ideas involve a combination which would ultimately provide for both motor-driven vehicles and horse-drawn carriages and wagons. A 40 foot road, should take care of the motor vehicles, and also permit of reasonable speed for ordinary vehicle traffic. A 30 foot partway will give ample space for horse-drawn vehicles. I believe the value of this road when finished will be to show the people of the United States by a practical example, how any section can build a road that will pay for its maintenance, will ultimately pay for itself, and pay those who contributed the land a handsome dividend on the original ground or investment. County or State credit might be needed temporarily, but in a growing section for only a very short time."

"I want to build a road that will be a lasting one, and I am gradually collecting all engineering data obtainable in addition to engaging road engineers of experience, who understand thoroughly the conditions to be met with in this day of multiple and varied traffic. Of course, this road will show to the people of Delaware the difference between a two horse load over a bad road and a one horse load over a good road. We have had inferior roads for a long enough period. I sincerely hope, the people of Delaware will see the ad-

success of upkeeping European roads

CASCARETS CLEANS LIVER AND BOWELS

No Bilelessness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches comes from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you a thorough cleansing inside and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

is due to the care of the trees along the roadside. This road will also have stations for the landing of airplanes, after the latest known methods adopted by the Belgians.

General du Pont believes that the day of Federal aid is comparatively near at hand. Furthermore, it is his idea that other prominent men who desire to benefit their States and communities in a lasting manner, will follow his example in supplying highways rather than contributing libraries or monuments, which, while good enough in their way, fall far short of the general value of a first-class road.

OUR SENSITIVE PLANET.

Constant Changes in the Shape of the Earth's Crust.

One naturally thinks of the earth's crust as being exceedingly solid and stable, except perhaps in volcanic regions where earthquakes are of frequent occurrence. As a matter of fact, however, the shell of our planet is extremely sensitive and most delicately balanced, so that under the influences of causes that seem altogether insignificant in comparison with the gigantic bulk and weight of the earth it yields and fluctuates in a most amazing manner.

To an eye so placed as to be capable of taking in at one comprehensive glance the whole round outline of the globe it would not appear of precisely the same shape during an entire day or even an hour. Most of the changes referred to are, of course, very slight when compared with the size of the earth itself.

The operation of atmospheric and oceanic and other similar causes is continually bringing about changes in the shape of the earth's crust. One of the most interesting of these agencies whereby such alterations are effected is the carrying power of rivers. Wherever a great quantity of sand and gravel is being brought down from the interior of a continent and poured into the sea, as, for instance, along the northwestern coast of Europe or the Gulf coast of the United States, the weight of the earth's crust is slowly increasing, and the consequence is seen in the gradual subsidence of the shore.

Such a sinking has been going on for thousands of years along the North sea coast and on the continental side of the British channel. A similar depression is occurring on the eastern edge of our own country and along the Gulf of Mexico. It has been estimated that the Gulf coast is sinking at the rate of nearly two feet in a century.

Corresponding elevations must, of course, occur elsewhere. And to these slow changes in the level of the earth's crust, earthquakes are due as well as to the more violent local disturbances created by volcanic action.—Harper's Weekly.

SOAP BUBBLES.

Thinness of the Gray Hued Films Just Before They Burst.

What is a soap bubble? Nothing but a film of water molecules held together by the cohesive power of soap in solution. A soap bubble's size and strength depend upon the right composition of the mixture that furnishes its material. The colors in a soap bubble are due to what is known in physics as the interference of light, and depend upon the varying thickness of the film of water.

The observer who watches a bubble as it is blown will notice that the colors rapidly chase one another over the filmy globe. He will also see that they vary in hue, growing less and less bright at the top of the bubble because there gravity stretches it downward and makes the film thinner.

It is a singular fact that the last color to appear on a soap bubble just before it breaks is a gray tint. The thickness of the film when this tint appears upon it is less than the one hundred and fifty-six-thousandth of an inch.

Were a soap bubble to be magnified to the size of the earth and the molecules magnified in proportion, then the whole structure would be as coarse grained as a globe of small lead shot touching one another at their surfaces.

In the blowing of a soap bubble there is presented the spectacle of the stretching of a liquid to the extreme limit of its capacity. In this way we come nearer to a sight of the invisible molecules of matter than could be got in any other way no matter how elaborate the experiment.—Exchange.

Scott's Libel on Woman.
"O woman, in our hours of ease

If woman fair he strove to please,
Where did he get his "hours of ease?"

J. Dannomy announced as a competing student to West Point is an old timer on the stage and his strongly disapproved in the annual acts were applauded throughout, and he was pronounced the best act of its kind seen here for months. Barry, superintendent of the Academy, made a strenuous complaint that many of the candidates (this year were totally unfit to pass examinations, despite proper notice from the Academy of the subjects of the examination. Quoting some of the replies of candidates to examination questions, he said they would be extremely ludicrous except for the ignorance they displayed. He urged some competitive preliminary examinations as to fitness to precede entrance examinations. General Barry said that after three examinations last summer there remained thirty seven vacancies in the cadet corps, owing to the failure of congressment to nominate candidates, although it was not doubted that in every one of their districts there were many qualified young men who desired the appointments.

The discipline at the Academy has been satisfactory since the adoption of measures to meet a formidable demonstration against one of the discipline officers immediately after General Barry assumed office.

Winter services of the men's class of the Middle Street Baptist church were resumed Sunday under the direction of the Rev. William T. Stanley.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Turn of the Tide.

George H. Barle, the Philadelphia financier, was talking in Washington about high-overhigh or rank-finance. "There's a certain type of financier," said Mr. Barle, "who in his greed for wealth loses his humanity. He becomes, in fact, a facsimile of Peter Brown."

"Peter Brown was a Conshohocken grocer. He was delivering some groceries in his wagon one morning when he ran down and badly injured an old lady. The old lady sued him and got big damages."

"Well, a few months later Brown was on his rounds again when he ran down and crippled an old gentleman. The old gentleman also sued him, and so large were the damages awarded him by a generous jury that poor Brown found himself actually on the verge of ruin."

"One morning about this time Brown's young son rushed into the shop in great excitement."

"Father," he cried—"father, mother's been run over by old Gobsa Golde's almighty horsepower touring car."

"The grocer's eyes filled with tears, and in a voice tremulous with deep feeling he exclaimed:

"Thank heaven, the luck's changed at last!"—Philadelphia Press.

Unconventionalities.

"You mustn't mind my not asking you to stay to dinner, Mrs. Happendin. There's just about enough roast beef for our own family."

"Yes, that's a beautiful diamond, Jack, dear—if it is a diamond. Let me see the jeweler's bill for it, please."

"Hawkins, you oughtn't to let the barber cut your hair so short. It shows the shape of your head."

"You needn't have brought the book back at all, Mrs. Luxmore; as soon as you borrowed it I sent out and bought another copy."

"Migglesworth, old chap, talk to me awhile, won't you? I'm troubled with insomnia."

"Dear sir: In returning these sketches to you we suggest that you quit trying to break into the magazines. See if you can't get a job in a sawmill."

Had Hopes.

Owen Wister, in addition to being an author, has acquired some celebrity as a wit. He was being shaved in a St. Louis hotel on returning from a trip to the west some time ago, and the barber, who was attending to his needs, apparently had been out the night before. His hand was very shaky, and several times the author winced.

"Will you have anything on your face when I get through?" the barber inquired when the ordeal was almost over.

"I can't tell yet," mumbled Wister, "but I hope to have part of my nose."

Philadelphia Times.

Taken at His Word.

"I note that you do not appear as often as formerly to the plain sense of the common people."

"No," answered Senator Sorghum; "I'm afraid I overworked that figure of speech. I encouraged my constituents to such an extent that they are disposed to rely on their plain sense instead of on my advice."—Washington Star.

Slow.

"I've heard it said he was a thought reader," said her dearest friend.

"It's not true," she said bitterly.

"How do you know?"

"He has been calling on me twice a week for four months and hasn't yet mustered up courage to propose."—Ally Sloper.

A Simple Twist of the Wrist.

"You know Jones, who was reputed so rich? Well, he died the other day, and the only thing he left was an old Dutch clock."

"Well, there's one good thing about it—it won't be much trouble to wind up his estate."—Sacred Heart Review.

HARD METALS.

They Come From Titanium and Are as Firm as the Diamond.

The diamond has ever been regarded as possessing one quality that placed it beyond rivalry—namely, that of hardness. There are several gems that compete with it in beauty, and at least one—the ruby—when of rare size outranks it in costliness, but none in the whole list equals it in hardness. The hardest steel cannot equal the diamond in that respect.

But there are at least two products of chemical experiment that have proved, according to French chemists, to be as hard as diamonds. These are produced from the rare metal titanium. One experimenter, it is claimed, succeeded in preparing titanium in the electric furnace. In the pure form it is much harder than steel or quartz, and when combined with silicon or carbon so as to form a silicide or boride of titanium it matches the diamond itself in hardness.

Titanium resembles tin in its chemical properties, and it is the characteristic element in the beautiful red and brown crystals of rutile. These, in the shape of needles, are sometimes found penetrating large white quartz crystals, forming gems that the French call "love's arrows."—New York Press.

KEPT ABOVE GROUND.

Ingenious Way Major Hook Evaded the Terms of a Will.

Among ingenious ways of evading a will the plan followed by Major Hook and recorded in "Ancient, Curious and Famous Wills" may be commended:

A county newspaper some years ago recorded the death of a Major Hook and spoke of him as "a singular character." "He died," says the report, "on Monday night at his house, Ham-street, Ham common. He was an officer in the East India company's service and reached the age of seventy-five. His house was remarkable for its dingy and dilapidated condition."

His wife had become entitled to a life annuity, bequeathed to her in these ambiguous terms: "And the same shall be paid to her as long as she is above ground." When, therefore, the good lady died her husband very naturally objected to forfeit his income by putting her below ground and ingeniously devised a mode of keeping her in a room which he allotted "to her sole and separate use," placing a glass case over her remains. For thirty years he thus prolonged his enjoyment, if not of his wife's society, at least of her income.

There's a drug—caffeine—in coffee and tea which interferes with digestion and has a disturbing effect on the heart and nervous system—showing in some persons more than in others.

One can continue with the drug and pay the cost in physical suffering, or quit and return to comfortable health, provided the condition has not become chronic.

Postum offers an easy way to slip off the tea and coffee habit.

Then, with the cause of the trouble removed, Nature will properly take up the rich food elements in Postum for the rebuilding of the system.

A RUN ON CHINESE BANKS

Revolutionary Party in China Gaining Headway---Missionaries Must Go.

Pekin, Oct. 16.—Heavy runs on the post and communications, as soon as banks here continued today and there possible.

Even the foreign banks are not immune from the financial scare. The Russo-Chinese Bank in the legation club back the crowds and protect the bank officials. Government bank notes are no longer passing at par; the best quotation today being at a discount of 20 per cent.

A published report today says that the rebels at Hankow have captured one of the Chinese warships anchored off the city.

Delayed advices from the south are that the imperial troops who retreated from Wuohang and Hankow are mobilizing at Chumation, 100 miles north of Hankow on the railroad.

A message from Chungking says that advices from Kiating report that that town was occupied several days ago by 2,000 rebels. About the same time 400 of the insurgent forces were marching in the direction of Yachow. Passports were issued to the missionaries at Kiating and the churches were protected by a guard.

Pekin, China, Oct. 16.—Members of the National Assembly, which was organized a year ago as the nucleus of a Chinese parliament, and which is to begin its second session here on Oct. 22, have taken a hand in the revolutionary situation. About half of the 200 members of the assembly are now in Peking. Sixty of them gathered privately yesterday and discussed the situation. They drew up a series of resolutions addressed to the throne.

The resolutions demand that in the interests of peace the provincial assembly of Szechuen be permitted to assemble immediately, and that the president and vice-president of that body be released from prison to take part in the sessions. The resolutions further call for a dismissal of Sheng Hsuanhuai, the imperial minister of

ROCKINGHAM PARK

Boston—W. A. Goye & Co. are offering for investment $500,000 capital stock of Rockingham Park, (New England Aviation Co.) of Salem, N. H. Total authorized capital is $1,000,000; par value of shares $100.

Rockingham Park was established in 1905 by the late John W. Gates at a cost of $1,000,000. It contains 100 acres of grounds, is readily accessible from Boston and other centers of population and combines in one property the equipment necessary for a country club, horse show and fair, aviation meet, horse or automobile racing and athletic sports.

There are two enormous steel grandstands in the park, seating 15,000 people, two clubhouses and 20 large stables. Capacity is not limited to 15,000 people, however, as no less than 200,000 persons can be accommodated, each to have a clear view of the finish line of the race tracks. An aviation meet was held at the Park on Columbus day, to which 30,000 people were drawn, notwithstanding that the event was insufficiently advertised. Some uncertainty existed as to whether or not certain aviators could be booked for the meet, thus giving the management but four days in which to advertise it. Had the meet received the usual amount of publicity, doubtless a much larger audience would have been secured. Owing to the fact that it can be adapted to a variety of uses, it is felt that the park can be very profitably operated.

The Newsboy

He Received a Training That Enabled Him to Dispense a Fortune.

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Neither of my parents showed me any parental affection. On several occasions when I threw my arms around my father's neck he unwound them impatiently and repelled me. My mother was more amenable to my demonstrations, but her treatment of me was very different from that she gave my brother Tom. And I noticed that when there was not enough of anything for both Tom and me, Tom got it.

There were other reasons to cause me to suspect—young as I was—that there was some mystery about my relations with the rest of the family. I overheard on one occasion my father say to my mother: "There's nothing more to be got out of him. He'll have to go." Both he and my mother looked at me when he said this in a way which seemed to indicate that he referred to me. While I had had certain things that they had not—much better clothing and sometimes money—after this remark I had far less than they, even being allotted at the table. I noticed, too, that when we were together strangers would look at them and then at me, seeming to notice something peculiar about us. I did not suspect then what I have known since—that while they were unrefined I gave evidence by my appearance of coming from respectable stock.

"HE IS THE IMAGE OF HIS MOTHER."

The wind was very chilly. I was poorly clad and shivered with the cold. I stood where I had been left from noon till dark, waiting for his return, but he did not come. Then it occurred to me that I was deserted.

I remembered that before we had set out that morning my mother had put something in my pocket rolled in a bit of paper. I took it out and found a five dollar bill. This confirmed me in the opinion that it had been my father's intention to lose me.

What should I do? I did not know how to make a living, and my $5 would be very soon expended. Notwithstanding that the intention of my parents had been to get rid of me, I still regarded them as my father and mother and determined to use the money to get back to them, for I knew the place in which they lived. Not deeming it necessary to spend anything for conveyance, I concluded to walk, for I dreaded lest when my capital was expended I should starve. I inquired of a man who passed me if he could tell me the way to the town where I lived, and he said it was altogether too far to go that night. I was too heartbroken to care to eat anything. I only wished to lie down and cry myself to sleep. The yard of the house before which I had been left looked inviting. I opened the gate and went in. Back of the yard was a stable, and, finding a door open, I entered and went up a pair of stairs to a haymow. Throwing myself on the hay, I was soon asleep.

I was awakened in the morning by the sun peeping through a chink in the roof. That bit of sunlight gave me courage. It told me that, having been thrown face to face with the world, I must pluck up spirit and meet it bravely. I would not go back to those who had thrown me out. I arose from my bed and, going to the stairs, listened. Not hearing any one moving below, except the horses, I went down and, passing through the yard, regained the street. Stopping at a restaurant, on wheels, I bought a cheap breakfast. The proprietor looked surprised when I handed him my five dollar bill and scrutinized it carefully, but he gave me my change, and I went out to find some way of making a living.

Most little boys thrown upon the world to take care of themselves fall into the business of selling papers. Seeing a number of these gamins on the street, I asked one of them the process by which he worked, and it occurred to me to invest my capital in that way. Going to a newspaper office, I bought papers, sold them and in the evening found myself a little better off pecuniarily than I had been in the morning.

I will not dwell on this period that was far more miserable than my life at home. I spent two years at it without finding myself in the end any better off than when I began. The boys with whom I associated were repellent to me. There was a difference between them and me, if not in education, at least in constitution. Poor children, they were not only forced to live without refinement, but had been born of unrefined parents. I learned afterward that I was made of too fine material to thrive in such an atmosphere. I had no heart for either my associates or my work. I had no fixed habits. I lacked proper food and clothing. In winter especially I suffered from the cold.

One day while I was selling papers I caught sight of my father passing in a street car. I ran after the car, but had not the strength to catch it. After I had failed I remembered that it would have been no use to catch one who had intentionally deserted me.

Being now fourteen years old, I began to read the papers I sold. I lived in a newsboy's home, and when I went there at night, instead of associating with the other boys, I read. One night what was my astonishment to see my own name in a person. It had been inserted by my father. If I should see the notice I was to address a certain number at the newspaper office. A faint hope that my father had not intended after all to desert me elated me.

The next morning I went to the office of the paper that had contained the advertisement, and a clerk put my address in the box intended for replies to the advertisement. That evening my father came to see me. He seemed very much pleased at finding me. When I asked him why he had not come back to me after leaving me he made no reply, but told me to come with him. Calling a carriage, he took me to the residential portion of the city, stopping at a handsome dwelling. It stood in a yard, and through that yard I had gone back to the stable where I had slept the first night after having been deserted. I told my father this, and he replied:

"I left you near this place on purpose."

We went up the steps of the house and my father rang the bell. We were admitted and were ushered into a handsomely furnished room such as I had never seen before. An old gentleman came in and looked inquiringly at my father.

"I have found him," said the latter. The old gentleman looked at me. "Yes, this is he," said my father. "I can prove his identity."

"You need not do that," said the old gentleman. "He is the image of his mother."

As he spoke he took me by the hand and I fancied I detected a tremor in his voice. Then, turning to my father, he said: "Leave him here. Come and see me tomorrow." My father turned and without a word to me left me. Then the old gentleman put his arms around me and drew me down beside him on a sofa.

"My boy," he said, "I must tell you the meaning of this. That man is not your father. He was formerly one of my servants. When your real mother married your real father I was very angry with her and would have nothing to do with her. Your father soon died and your mother was starving. I forced her, as a condition to taking her home, to give up you, her child, and I paid this man and his wife to take you and bring you up as their own. He became excessive in his demands and I broke with him. He brought you to this house and left you before the door, but said nothing to me or to you as to your being so near your real home. A few months ago I fell ill and believed I was about to die. This made a great change in me. I sent for you, but you were not to be found. I gave your reputed father money with which to prosecute a search for you, and you are returned to me through an advertisement."

He pressed the electric button and a woman came in, to whom he gave instructions to furnish me with a bath and put me to bed. I went with her upstairs and was put in a beautiful room and through an open door entered a marble bath room. The next morning a man came in with clothing, from which I was told to choose that which fitted me. When I was dressed I looked at myself in a mirror and was astonished at the change.

I went downstairs and breakfasted with my grandfather. After he had me upstairs and into a room where sat a middle-aged lady.

"Mildred," he said, "the good God has granted me the boon of returning to you, your son."

The lady threw her arms around my neck, but gave way to hysterics so that she was unable to speak. My grandfather watched her till she became quieted, then left us alone together.

If asked what was the happiest hour of my life I would say it, once the one I first spent with my mother. It was not one hour but many, for during that whole day she would not let me leave her even for a few minutes. And from that moment a remarkable change came over my life. From a street gamin I became the petted heir to a large fortune. My grandfather seemed to live only to make reparation for his harshness both to my mother and to me. She has just died and I am laying plans to resume each year a number of boys from the wretched life to which their circumstances have doomed them.

PLANNING TAFT'S CAMPAIGN

Washington—Republican campaign managers have tentatively decide on secretary Stinson for Vice-President and William Loch, Jr., for chairman of the national committee in an effort to force the presidential campaign on New York and try to make sure that it will be carried by the Republicans. The plan includes the renomination of President Taft and the adoption of the Republican national convention of a progressive platform, which Mr. Taft will accept saying that it has from the beginning represented his views.

This plan of the Republican managers was decided on by a considerable number of them and is fast gaining favor with others. It has already been laid before some of the closest friends of Mr. Taft, personal and political, and met their approval. It is to be referred to Mr. Taft himself as soon as he returns from the West. His adoption is believed to be certain.

The Republicans figure that the Democrats failing to carry New York next year, cannot win the presidency unless there shall be a political overhauling such as the country has perhaps never witnessed. Save New York for Mr. Taft, they say and the rest will be easy. The 46 electoral votes of that state will offset defections in many other states; indeed, it is said that Mr. Taft could lose most of the insurgents middle West and still win with New York on his side.

As helping in carrying New York for Mr. Taft will be in nomination of a candidate for Vice-President from that state, a man who is avowedly progressive in his sympathies, and in harmony with the progressive leaders of the Pinchot and Garfield type. Such a man is Mr. Stinson, who also has the friendship of Mr. Roosevelt. The Republican situation in New York is now of such a character as to make it certain that both factions of the party would unite on a presidential ticket made up of Mr. Taft and Mr. Stinson. This would be the more certain with the national convention adopting a strong progressive platform.

As helping further in carrying New York will be the naming of a national committee chairman who knows that state as he knows his alphabet, who has the confidence and good will of all factions of the party, and who at the same time is a politician of wide and varied experience in both the state and the national fields. There is but one such man as that in the entire state, and that is William Loch, Jr., former secretary to President Roosevelt and now the collector of customs at the port of New York. The selection of Mr. Loch as National Chairman is said to be certain.

SIGNAL FROM AEROPLANE.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Signaling from an aeroplane has been accomplished successfully at the army aviation field at College Park, Maryland. Lieutenant Roy C. Kirtland and Charles Bowman ascended. While the lieutenant manipulated the aeroplane the signal expert shot black smoke into the air from a contrivance he had designed. The Morse system was used, and signal officers on the ground said the result was excellent. The distance at which the signals were read, however, was but a mile. Lieutenant Kirtland said it would have to be five miles to be of real benefit to the army. Another experiment is to be made, when lamp black will be discharged from apparatus fixed upon the aeroplane. This, it is thought, will be visible a distance of fully five miles.

GERMANS TO BUILD RIVAL TO PANAMA CANAL IS REPORT

New York—German capitalists, presumably with the sympathetic secret backing of the German government, are planning to dig a canal in a latitudinal line from the course of the Amazon river in Costa Rica, Central America, through Salinas, Bay, which opens on the Gulf of Papagayo in the Pacific ocean, says a World story.

Dr. Wiley Commends Cotton Oil

For over a quarter of a century Dr. Wiley, the famous government expert, has conducted an active campaign to insure food in the interest of public health. His advocacy in a recent speech of the use of Cotton Oil as a food is, therefore, especially significant; it simply emphasizes the wholesomeness of Cotton Oil, the vegetable oil shortening which is composed of essentially of Cotton Oil, the use of which he so strongly recommends. Cottonseed is endorsed by physicians generally, because of its purity and wholesomeness. It has been the leader in Cotton Oil products for over twenty-five years.

MORE FIGHTING IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Oct. 16.—Today's advances from Cuernavaca say that 500 Zapatistas were cut to pieces in the battle near the village of Topoxtlan yesterday, but Zapata himself once more escaped.

The Zapatistas were caught between the forces of Gen. Figueroa and Col. Blanquet. Two hundred of them are said to have been killed, and a large number wounded and many taken prisoners.

The Rebels, having heard of the advance of the Federals, had intrenched themselves on the hillside near the village. The Federals, advancing from opposite directions, cut off the Rebel retreat.

Behind their breastworks, the Rebels withheld their fire until the Federals were within 200 yards of the trenches. Then they blazed away, but their aim was poor and few Federals fell. Checking the advance, the Federals sent their sharpshooters to the end of the trenches, and their fire drove the Rebels from cover. Coming into the open, they boldly attacked the Government troops, and the battle raged for seven hours. At the end of that time the Zapatistas were completely routed. Most of their horses, which had been tied at a distance on the mountain side, were captured.

Zapata is said to have led his followers personally, and is also reported that his whereabouts have been betrayed to Gen. Figueroa by a woman who had formerly been his friend.

NAVY NOTES

Capt. John M. Bowyer, formerly superintendent of the Naval Academy, will appear before a retiring board at the Washington navy yard, Oct. 17. The board consists of Rear Admirals Newton E. Mason, Austin M. Knight and Bradley A. Fiske and Medical Directors L. G. Henebeger and William R. Du Bose.

It is regarded as certain that Captain Bowyer will retire with the rank of rear admiral. In view of his retirement, Capt. Agrabah N. Zane, John R. Edwards, James M. Helm, Albert B. Willis and Cameron McK. Winslow, who are additional numbers, and Nathaniel R. Usher will be promoted on the vacancy caused by the retirement of Rear Admiral Harris.

The retirement of Rear Admiral Harris caused a vacancy in the rear admiral's list for Captain Bowyer, but as he failed to pass his examination for promotion the vacancy will be filled by promotion of Captain Usher, who is next in rank. The five officers between Captains Bowyer and Usher who are extra numbers must be advanced to the grade of rear admiral ahead of Captain Usher.

Captain Frank F. Fletcher will be promoted on the retirement of Rear Admiral William A. Marshall on Oct. 17. Captains Zane, Edwards, Helm, Winslow, Usher and Fletcher have been ordered to appear before a board consisting of Rear Admirals Mason, Knight and Pike at the navy yard, Washington, on Oct. 17, for examination for promotion.

TO GET TOGETHER ON THE MAT.

Tomy Johnson, a local wrestler, who his friends claim is a good man, has been matched to wrestle J. E. Raulion of the U. S. S. Tennessee. The latter is said to have won the 150 lb. championship of the navy, and he is a clean and athletic looking lad.

The hard-headed gentlemen who manage railroads do so from a dollars and cents standpoint and look on the embellishment of the station grounds and approaches from the dollars and cents standpoint only and not from an aesthetic point of view. They realize that it attracts travel and settlement and by so doing not only helps current revenue, but improves the value of their real estate. Nevertheless these men, in that connection, scarcely think of the good policy even from those who work for the advancement of horticulture in a spirit of altruism for the public good.

Improved grounds and improved stations are two of the best advertisements a road could have and worth far more than their cost in that connection. Safety and convenience come first, of course, but elegance is equally desirable if the cost is not too heavy.

WOMAN AND THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

Civic Improvement a New Field For Her Instincts.

IT HAS WORKED WONDERS.

Communities All Over the Country Have Been Benefited by Tree Clubs and Town Betterment Societies—It is Woman's Natural Bent.

There is a new field opening for women as factors in civic improvement. Women have always set the moral and aesthetic standard in the community in which they lived, and when they once get into this new field of making our cities more beautiful—a field which is really closest to their natural bent—they ought to accomplish wonders, says J. J. Levison, forester of the borough of Queens, New York.

Their confined life of former years gave them no chance to demonstrate their fitness for this sort of work. But today new interest in outdoor life, together with new social relations, is bringing out the wonderful aesthetic and moral qualities that have been so long diverted from the problems of the city beautiful and are now demonstrating a woman's superior fitness to do much in this new field. The instances where women have helped to improve their cities with trees are numerous.

In Brooklyn it was women who organized a national city tree association and who started the first tree clubs among school children in this country. The women of Rome, N. Y., formed a civic organization and collected sufficient funds to care for their trees all the year. In less than a year they have demonstrated the value of their work and are now influencing the city authorities to appropriate sufficient funds for the preservation and planting of their city trees. In Morristown, N. J., the same thing occurred. It was a Massachusetts woman who founded the first improvement society in the United States. About ten years ago women formed a civic improvement association in South Park, Chicago, and within a few years not only changed the aesthetic and sanitary appearance of their own section, but extended their influence to the whole city.

In California women saved the famous Calaveras grove of big trees, a matter that has become a question of national interest and has received the commendation of congress and the leading men of the country.

Here is a broad and interesting field awaiting the modern woman, a field that tends to make one's surroundings worth living in and our citizens better and healthier, a field that requires every virtue a woman possesses—her good taste, her moral instincts, her love for the good and beautiful, her patience and perseverance. Because of these her natural gifts she is bound to excel man in this field of endeavor, for, after all, man's sphere of influence in a general way is his work, and this work too often tends to become a matter of such routine that there is absolutely no inspiration in it. Men too often cannot see the moral issues at stake in living on treeless streets or in sections devoid of parks.

There is no doubt that women are the natural leaders for the realization of the city beautiful—beautiful not with a lot of expensive cut stone, formidable fences or marble columns, but beautiful with natural parks, with avenues lined with fine trees and with front yards covered with verdure and blossoms and beautiful with children, healthy mentally and physically.

GARDENS HELP RAILWAYS.

Well Kept Station and Grounds Best Advertisement For Roads. "Railroad Gardening as a Paying Investment" was the subject of an address before the Florists' club of Philadelphia, by Paul Huebner, landscape gardener for the Reading railway company. He said in part:

The hard-headed gentlemen who manage railroads do so from a dollars and cents standpoint and look on the embellishment of the station grounds and approaches from the dollars and cents standpoint only and not from an aesthetic point of view. They realize that it attracts travel and settlement and by so doing not only helps current revenue, but improves the value of their real estate. WASHING THE DISHES.

Suggestions to His Brother by the Club Woman's Husband.

Tonight I want to offer my brother subscribers a valuable hint about dishwashing.

When you do the dishes don't set the dishpan in the bottom of the sink, as most men do. Sinks may be the right height for women, but they are too low for men.

For months I suffered from crick in the back, aching shoulders, stiff neck and abdominal cramps. I consulted our family physician without obtaining relief.

At last, quite by accident, I lit on the cause of my trouble. A pile of skillets and saucepans had been left in the sink, and I put the dishpan on them. Then I was not obliged to bend over so far as usual, and that day I had hardly any lumbago pains at all.

Since then I have rested the dishpan on a couple of bricks placed in the bottom of the sink, and I wash the dishes standing almost erect. The roses are coming back into my cheeks, and our whole home is brighter as a result of my lucky discovery.

I am sure that my men readers will be saved many miserable hours if they will follow my suggestion. The bricks may be used between times as door stoppers, foot warmers or paperweights. Tomorrow evening I will tell you what I know about washing granite ware.—Newark News.

DEEPEST SLEEP.

It Always Occurs During the First Hour of Slumber.

"Yes," said the doctor, "sleep is a very puzzling mystery. Nobody knows what the cause of it is, but we do know that it is always accompanied by anaemia of the brain. In other words, when you sleep the blood drains away from the head to the limbs. If you fell asleep on a balanced bed, the moment you dropped off the foot of the bed would begin to sink, and the deeper the sleep the greater the slant.

"That is why a hot bath tends to sleepiness. It brings the blood to the skin and so lessens the supply in the brain. Curiously enough, great cold has the same effect and for the same reason. You know how cold swells and reddens the hands.

"Recent experiments have shown conclusively how pale and bloodless the brain grows in sleep. How? Well, a piece of bone has been removed from the skull of a puppy and a watchglass inserted instead. The moment the puppy under observation wakes its brain at once grows pink again. Not the puppy doesn't seem to mind it.

"Experiments made by dropping heavy balls have shown that sleep is always at its deepest in the first hour. After that unconsciousness gets shallower and shallower."—London Answers.

Tells How to Break a Severe Cold And Grippe in a Few Minutes

You will distinctly feel your cold breaking and all the Grippe symptoms leaving after taking the very first dose.

It is a positive fact that Pope's Cold Compound taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pope's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless compound as directed with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

First One Ever Here Ties up at Jones Wharf

The submarine boat, Sturgeon, one of the latest and finest of its kind built for the navy, was tied up today at the Jones wharf awaiting favorable weather to move to the Rockland course for an official test. The boat left Quincy on Monday and bearing the weather, put in here instead of Portland.

A big lighter of the Scott Wrecking Company, New London, and tub Casco are with the submarine and will handle the work of sinking the torpedo boat in Rockland harbor.

The test will be made without a crew on board and the boat sent down 200 feet with weights. Assistant Naval Constructor Donald R. Battie, U. S.
